Hello,

I'm Sue Hardman and I've had my own journey dealing with skin issues. As a teenager I had very bad acne, it really affected my self confidence and I became extremely self-conscious about the appearance of my skin.

After I thought I'd gotten rid of my spots and blemishes they came back again in my 20's which was once again very devastating. I also ended up with very visible butterfly pigmentation on cheeks and forehead (chloasma) that became even more obvious during my pregnancy.

I managed to clear my acne spots and chloasma with healthy living and using alternative therapies. At the time I didn't know as much as I know now and I probably wouldn't have had to end up being quite so self-conscious and embarrassed about my skin.

Looking to the future I know that wrinkles and ageing are inevitable but I'm managing these effects with the knowledge I've accumulated in natural health along with the other tools in my kitbag.

I've been there and know how it feels to have problem skin, so this handy toolkit will help you to get started on your journey to better health. Working from the inside to beautiful skin on the outside.

I work with women who have problem skin (acne, sun damage, spots or blemishes) all the time and it's my passion to help them have clear skin, so they can feel confident about themselves and how they look.

There is a connection between your inner health and outer beauty, your inner vitality is reflected on the outside. Your skin needs feeding from the inside out with essential ingredients for good looking skin. A natural approach to supporting the skin will ultimately lead to long-lasting health and the rejuvenation of your skin.

A few simple tools that can be included in your diet and lifestyle will set you up for lifelong better skin and inner health.

The 7 Essential Tools To Clear, Beautiful Skin.

1 Squeaky Clean – clean your body from the inside out so your skin can glow

Start your day with a cup of hot water and add a slice of lemon or lime. This simple technique cleanses your entire system ready for the day. Don't stop there, drinking warm water throughout the day helps your digestive system immensely - you can add lemon, lime or ginger for greater variety.

TOP TIP: Do a green vegetable juice detox one day a week (preferably on a weekend) – use spinach, ginger, kale, beetroot, carrots, cucumber and apples. Or take a green superfood powder and get glowing skin faster.

2 Activate your skin's health by giving it the right ingredients

Feed your skin and ensure the production of healthy collagen and plump elastic tissues with foods that contain minerals and are also protein rich – try spinach, almonds, whole grains, beans, cherries and avocados. You also need clean proteins like fish, chicken, turkey, lentils and eggs.

TOP TIP – Try to avoid plastic bottled water as chemicals (like BPA) leach into the water so your liver doesn't have to work so hard to detox – use aluminium or BPA free plastic containers.

3 Keep your skin luscious with essential lubricating oils

Yes, even if you have spots or problem skin you need good oils. Not fats! There is a difference. Oils keep your skin soft and supple and it's essential for women's hormones. The essential fatty acids are found in olive oil, oily fish, flax seeds, walnuts and almonds.

TOP TIP: Water, Water, drink loads at least 2 litres. It helps to flush out toxins and it keeps your skin hydrated so it looks more radiant and plumper. Your eyes will tend to look brighter too.

4 Your skin needs regular feeding every 3 hours

If you eat every 3 hours you will keep your blood sugar constant and prevent any blood sugar spikes. If you don't eat for hours, when you do eat your blood sugar spikes and damages your essential collagen and elastin. Try eating a protein, a healthy fat and low GI carb – try the following for snacks:- oatcakes or carrot sticks with houmous or an apple with nuts like almonds.

TOP TIP: Spice up your life. Spices are concentrated forms of antioxidants and loaded with health benefits. Add cinnamon to your porridge or cereal. Add Turmeric to your cooking. Drink ginger tea and use it in your cooking – a power house of benefits from nature's pharmacy.

5 Manage your stress and rejuvenate your skin.

Stress not only upsets the balance of hormones in your body it also impairs your body's immunity. The knock on effect of stress can lead to unwanted hormonal spots and it can also slow down your skins natural ability to renew cells, it can cause the breakdown of healthy collagen and elastin.

TOP TIP: Exercise increases your feel good hormones; it also helps your body to detox . It increases the flow of blood filling it with essential oxygen and nutrients that go straight to the skin.

6 Broccoli and beans to balance your hormones

Support your liver daily - it's got a big job to do clearing the unwanted hormones, everyday try eat some of these vegetables - broccoli, beetroot & kale. Beans and pulses help your body to excrete excess hormones. The Japanese know what there're doing, try some miso and tempeh.

TOP TIP: Eat one cup of broccoli or cabbage a day to provide your liver with what it needs to eliminate excess hormones.

7 Let food be your healer, the only way to beautiful skin

Eat foods with all the colours of the rainbow – red, green, orange, purple, blue. These wonderful vegetables and fruits will give your skin all the antioxidant nutrients it needs to repair or stop the damage caused by free radicals from UV rays and can help heal blemishes or scars.

Concentrate on colourful fruit & vegetables plus tomatoes, orange coloured foods, eggs, green tea, 80% dark chocolate, organic red wine.
